Big Business Reaches Out

PROFESSOR DALY, who teaches zoology at Harvard, says the earth's core, reaching from the center half way to the surface, is red hot glass. A pressure of 50,000,000 pounds to the square inch causes intense heat of 50,000 degrees centigrade.

On that core of liquid molten glass the continents rest and slide.

The shore of Africa once touched the shores of South America, as you probably know.

The outer crust of the earth is of igneous about 30 miles deep, and other layers, below that one, protect us from the heat.

Furthermore, you are told that the moon is the result of a catastrophe. It is a piece of the earth that rolled away long ago before the earth was solid, now held in its place by the earth's power of gravitation.

It was a fortunate accident for us, for without the moon to shift the tides, the oceans would be practically stagnant, and human life impossible.

Governors of various states are co-operating with Theodore A. Edison, seeking among boys of today "Edison's successor."

That boy, when he is found, will be worth millions, many ingredients, including poverty and necessity, were necessary.

The next Edison is somewhere, on a farm, or in the city.

There is no way to identify him now.

Wall Street has grown calmer, with interest at 11 per cent. But bright, cheerful, stand out here and there, those that still stand in "United Aircraft and Transport," originally the Bessie Company, put together by Mr. Mitchell's National City Bank, have made a profit of $1,000,000, and that amount they sold and did not have.

The land's difficulty is in knowing which stock to "pick."

The value of stock is not a thing that is never seen.

It is a thing that is never seen.

It is a thing that is never seen.

It is a thing that is never seen.

On his recent visit to Germany, Alfred E. Smith, Jr., head of General Motors, purchased "Opel," biggest automobile concern in Germany.

Now the Opel works place an order for $1,500,000 worth of tools of the United States.

Rig business has become international. American business men are reaching out; buying automobile works in Germany, Italy and Holland; starting to buy in China.

New York's transactions yesterday on the market were headed as follows:

"Money market" exceeds all needs; it drops to 10 per cent.

Lenders offered more money than borrowers could use; hence, the market was a little easier.

The lenders have a wonderful plan, as the market was a little easier.

The lenders have a wonderful plan, as the market was a little easier.

The lenders have a wonderful plan, as the market was a little easier.

Harkey's Island, off the coast of South Carolina, has 1300 inhabitants in its 1000 acres of land. It has no public officials, no police, sheriff or doctor. The 1300, all fishermen, live peacefully.

A community without police or laws is hard for us to see, but it is a thing that is never seen.

A community without police or laws is hard for us to see, but it is a thing that is never seen.

A community without police or laws is hard for us to see, but it is a thing that is never seen.

Col. Lindbergh tells Congressmen that within a few years there will be "safe flying" by "cheap flying" and "cheap flying" by "cheap flying."

The first office, which continues its admirable aviation development, has "mail time from the Atlantic to the Pacific" by one night.

Meanwhile, anxious to have more balloons on earth, Lindbergh has issued orders for 1000 more balloons, but will not increase greatly.

WITCH DOES NOT FIGHT IN SENATE DEPOSITION

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Correspondent.
Washington, May 2.—A searching investigation into the participation of Andrew W. Mellon in the merger of the Aluminum Company of America with the Canadian Development Company four years ago probably will be undertaken by the Senate judiciary committee before rendering a verdict on his eligibility to serve as Secretary of the Treasury, it was learned today.

The committee already has possession of a deposition made by Mellon last July in a lawsuit growing out of the merger, which has thrown a new light on his connection with the aluminum company.

ADMITTS HER 'FACTOR.'
In his deposition, Mellon admitted he was a "factor" in the affairs of the company and that he was consulted on questions regarding the "policy" of the company. It showed he participated in the negotiations resulting in the merger and that the final terms were agreed to until after they had his approval.

The committee meanwhile resumed its deliberations behind locked doors.

A copy of the Mellon deposition, obtained by International News Service, revealed how Mellon in his own words had told of his connection and activities with the Aluminum Co.

RAT LAW IS VIOLATED.
It was this connection which led to the present inquiry, it was said. A Democratic-Insurgent coalition contends that Mellon holds office in violation of the rat law, forbidding a Treasury Secretary from being "interested or concerned in the carrying on of business trade or commerce."

HERSCREARS IN CROWD

By FRANCIS P. O'NEILL, Boston Evening American Correspondent.
South Paris, Me., May 2.—In the presence of her two small children, Mrs. Anna Merrill Welch, 34, heard herself formally charged today with the murder of Eliza H. Turner, 75-year-old wealthy Hartford farmer.

"Oh, my God! My God! They're framing me!" she screamed, and burst into tears. Later she became hysterical and collapsed, and a physician was summoned.

The children echoed their mother's cries, and the elder, Gladys, five, ran up and down the corridor screaming until the sheriff's wife finally succeeded in quieting her. The other child is an infant five months old.

Mrs. Welch heard herself charged with the crime in a warrant issued by Judge Albert D. Park in the local court on request of County Attorney William J. Flanagan of Oxford County.

The warrant was read to her by Sheriff Harry O. Stimpson, 1, at the women's wing of the local jail, where the young mother had been held a prisoner without any charge against her.

Although she had received a hint of what was going to happen, when the authorities changed their minds about releasing her at the last-minute yesterday, the former Boston girl seemed not to have realized what was going to happen. Her words appeared to shock her greatly.

From the big courtroom on the second floor of the jail, where she is being held, her screams were heard outside and attracted a crowd of curious onlookers. "I don't know what is going on in the outside world," the prisoner said, when Mrs. Stimpson, wife of the sheriff, went to her side.

Mrs. Stimpson applied restoratives when Mrs. Welch collapsed, and after a doctor was called Sheriff Stimpson conferred with County Attorney Flanagan, who decided not to arraign the girl until tomorrow, on account of her condition.

DESERTED BABY, SO SHE LOSES IT IN COURT

A young mother's plea for the 26-month-old infant she was accused of abandoning failed today when Judge Avery in Quincy today and he sentenced Peggy Louise Hills, 25, of Melrose at Cambridge, to the women's reformatory.

Another woman, Mrs. Roland Goodrich of Brooks at Somerville, who took the baby from the State, will be allowed to keep him. According to testimony, Mrs. Hills told Judge Avery if he would allow her to go free, she would care for the child and support it. She had a job on which she could start work tomorrow, she said.

The court was unmoved and gave her an indefinite sentence, from which she appealed, and was held in $500.

PRIVATE EXHIBITION OF WOODBURY PAINTINGS

Artists Work Shown at Mrs. Perkins' Riverway Home

WHEN THE GALLERY TRAINED, globe-trotting art patrons of Boston's elite are invited to an exhibition of contemporary water color studies it means that something extraordinary is being shown. And when Mrs. Charles Brues Perkins is the hostess with Charles H. Woodbury at a private showing it is doubly significant and an occasion not to be missed. Such an exhibition at 132 Riverway drew both art critics and patrons in large numbers for the first showing of a collection of West Indies water color studies.

NIGHT VAPORS FLEETING the dawn on jade mountains, sparkling blue waters with leaping dolphins, and then the fury of a storm-lashed sea or a summer cloud gently dripping shimmering water veil over a quiet lake. These are Nature's moods, interpreted by Mr. Woodbury with a certain dash that reflected his emotional reaction to the original scene on many nobles gathered to study the facility of his finished. Mrs. Perkins has the sort of enthusiasm that animates others under the artist's banner. Mrs. Russell Sullivan, for one, responded to the call of the Woodbury "art of seeing" school by serving on its board.

EXPRESSING ONE'S FEELING in color and line has become a pet hobby with an increasingly large portion of society, including Mrs. William Lowell Putnam, Mrs. Horace Gray, Mrs. Edward Clarke Streeter, Miss Helen Orcutt, Miss Mary T. Spooner and Mrs. Richard and Nathaniel. Others who came to view and admire were Dean Holmes of Harvard, Mrs. Harold Russell, Mrs. George H. Davenport and Miss Esther Barrows.

PROF. AND MRS. OKLEY OF Durham, South Africa, were greeted through the throng by Royal Farnum, whose labors in behalf of the tyro bent on acquiring skill with pencil and brush coincide with those of his visitor. Dr. L. Vernon Briggs breezed in with New York guests for a view of the "Ten Panels of the Sea" group, once so ardently coveted by the late Mrs. J. Gardner for her museum and now shown after removal shrouded from view for several years. The brilliant blues of this group vied for favor with the less pretentious water color sketches.

ART ALSO HOLDS THE boards at the Junior League rooms in Commonwealth ave. where many interesting Bostonians in portrait drawings are on exhibition for two weeks. Among those exhibiting special interest are the likenesses of Philip Wadsworth and his son Alexander, done with great fidelity by the artist, Miss Muriel Hannah of New York. That of Chico Allen, son of Mrs. Gordon Allen, an officer of the League, is another fine study. Mrs. Allen is to sit for her portrait this week.

NEVER WEARY OF DOING good deeds in the name of charity, Junior League girls, headed by Miss Jane Megrew, are serving as ushers tonight and tomorrow night for the "Pirates of Penance" the past year. Mrs. Carl Dreyfus, chairman of the shop committee, is hostess. Assisting Mrs. Channing are Mrs. Charles A. Newhall, the president, Mrs. David Evans, and Mrs. Charles Scudder. The progress of this unique shop on Newbury st. and its summer plans are the topics for discussion.

CONVERSING OVER THE TEA cups are Mrs. David Ellis, Mrs. John L. Ames, Mrs. Philip Sylvester, Mrs. Henry D. Tudor, Mrs. Francis V. Crane, Mrs. Lawrence Dodge, Mrs. John Rogers, Mrs. Robert Rivers, Miss Mary Hayes, Mrs. Richard Fuller, Mrs. W. W. Higgins, Miss Frances Campbell, Mrs. John Quincy Adams, Miss Alice Seaver, Mrs. Lawrence Stuart.

THERE'S A PLEASANT BUSY-TLE of preparation for journeying abroad in the Beacon at menage of the John B. Moultons today, for the sunset must see the last trunk packed and the final good-byes said. Miss Betty, of the Vincent Club and the Junior League and the town's youthful elite, is to sail with her parents on the Vulcania Saturday from New York, bound for Naples, and the joys of touring Italy, France and England. Paris and London are included in a trip extending through part of June. Upon their return the Moultons will open their Hamilton home for the summer.

BLINDS COME DOWN AND shutters go up on the townhouse of Mrs. Charles B. Prince on Marlborough st. today when the family exodus to the Dover estate occurs. With her two charming daughters, Misses Justina and Priscilla, and Charles B. Jr., Mrs. Prince is getting settled for the summer, or rather, until June 25, when Miss Justina's debut season, is to sail for a few weeks in Switzerland with Miss Priscilla. The latter is to make her bow to society at a Country Club dance on November 1 next, and a large tea for both girls is planned.

THIS IS THE WEDDING EVE of Miss Helen Kingsbury Curtis, who weds Herbert Pelham Curtis of Boston and New York in the latter city with great pomp and ceremony in the Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church tomorrow. The site of both cities will pack the edifice for this important society wedding, and the Boston quota has already gone over it. Several ushers are from this city, and hosts of friends. Miss Curtis will be attended by her sister, Miss Cornelia Curtis, as maid of honor, and Thomas Curtis, a brother of the groom, will be best man. The Princesse Michel Cantacuzene, cousin of the groom, will be one of the eight bridesmaids. The reception will be held at the Colony Club.

Filene's

Why the Jones's like Filene's cold storage for furs

Mrs. Jones likes it because it is so convenient. She remembers "Hancock 3800" without having to look it up. She calls—and the truck comes—no bother at all. She finds Filene drivers polite and intelligent, too.

Miss Jones likes it because the store is so convenient to her office—she passes by almost every day—and it's just a moment to the Fur Shop in the fifth floor.

(Miss Jones received an old fashioned fur coat from her aunt as a gift—she had it remodelled at Filene's—and now she's enthusiastic about it.)

Mr. Jones likes Filene's storage because the vaults are the largest privately owned cold fur storage vaults in New England, with the entire resources of Filene's back of every fur stored there—so he knows the family's investment in furs is safe.

And all the Jones's agree that the Fur Reception Room in our Cambridge Building (where they drove the other day to put away a fur Aunt Sarah sent from Tamworth) is a very nice place to go. They're going to get all their furs there "while-you-wait" in the Fall.

Filene's Cambridge Building is on the Charles River Parkway at Cambridge St. Bridge. Wide roads in every direction.

Thrilling 6-Day Novel by Noted Author

What Has Gone Before

Ruth Micks comes back from school to her home in Cuba, where her father, Lancy, is employed by big sugar interests. She has a great admirer in Ramon Fonderilla, expelled from the school. Maurice Noris becomes a frequent visitor at the Micks household, neglecting Mrs. Fletcher, wife of the administrator of the sugar properties, to whom he has been attentive in the past. Don Miguel Bautista is the big power in the cane industry. Micks fears him. Edith Fletcher is a great admirer of Ruth, and incurs the displeasure of her mother. Mrs. Fletcher is annoyed at Maurice's liking for Ruth.

Mrs. Bautista warns Ruth not to encourage Maurice. A great fire threatens the cane fields. Ruth goes to the scene with Ramon, against her father's orders. Ramon kisses her and tells her he loves her. She is not very responsive. She shows her daring and faces her father after the fire is under control. Two men are carrying a man. Lancy tells her to go home, as she can't help. A sack is laid over the man's head. Lancy, realizing he has shot Martinez, is troubled, wondering if he was really trying to fire the cane. Ruth rebels against Ramon, convincing herself that she's never told him she loves him. Noris is consumed with a silent admiration of Ruth. He stops at the Fletcher's on Christmas Eve to give Mary a present. But continues on to Ruth's.

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER 4
IN the Casa Vivien young Edith and Ramon were flustering dinner. "I don't like the way Ramon runs up to the Micks' all the time," she observed.

"Well," he said desperately, "my father's coming here tonight, you know."

"What's he going to do?" "Look around, I suppose. You can tell him about Ramon, if you want."

"I shall tell him," she promised. "You know, among other things, it's not fair to the girl."

"What isn't?" asked Miguel. "Letting her get fond of him, when there can't possibly be anything in it."

She thought about the Micks a moment. Wasn't that a peculiar thing about Ruth's father and that poor Martinez who got shot, she said.

"Not very," said Miguel. "It's the law, you know. A minute later and we might have been in a bad fix, if the fire had started again."

"You know," said Mrs. Bautista pensively, "that people say Mr. Micks and Martinez were on very bad terms."

Mr. Britton, sitting down for dinner, was far more concerned than any one could have guessed over the break between Noris and Mary Fletcher. His fondness for the Micks and the Fletchers made him anxious about what might happen if some unrelated difficulty like this should break up the firm Micks-Fletcher alliance.

"Maurice doesn't look well," he observed blandly. "This year life up at the Micks' hasn't helped him any."

"He goes there because he's got a crush on Ruth," supplied GIRL HITS FUTURE OF FREED GUNMAN Tong? No! But Yee Flees Allee Same!

CHAPMAN HUB PARTY 'SQUEALER' EUROPE MAY WED

Hartford, Ct., May 2.—A Massachusetts girl, Miss Hermine Grundleur of Greenfield, now holds in her slim hands the future of Walter E. Shean, confessed gunman and robber on one-time pal of the notorious Gerald Chapman.

After three years of imprisonment for complicity in the crime which sent Chapman to the gallows, Shean was free today on parole.

Liberty, however, soon as it is to most relaxed convicts, came to the ex-gangster as a blessing, not a curse.

His turned State's evidence, and his testimony made Chapman's conviction possible.

Strangely enough, he is going to the future on the virtue he lacked, that of loyalty. He based his first plea for parole on his announced plan to marry Miss Grundleur, who has been working as a telephone operator. He said she was a "square shooter," a girl who would stand with her to help him.

That was a year ago. The parole was held up because of a misdemeanor which Shean committed within the prison.

By 12 for the more in his cell, he paid for his slip and now he is his own man—or, perhaps, Hermina Grundleur's man.

Prohibition of cars and others who have long been familiar with Shean's character and history were made with his promise to make the young Greenfield woman his wife.

There has been no word for weeks from Hermina Grundleur. Will she "go through" for the man who has "gone through" for her friends—and his enemies were watching today to see

Malden Folk Answer His Daily Question and Pose for Picture

THE QUESTION
Do you believe a man who has killed a person in an automobile accident while operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor should lose his operator's license for a period of 10 years, which is now a law?

HERBERT CARLTHORP, 123
Reechwood ave.—It is my opinion that the law is a bit too strict. I think five years is long enough to deprive a person his license after a fatal accident involving a drunken operator. When one thinks it over a man who is operating while under the influence of liquor and figures in a fatal accident suffers more mental anguish than a sober man involved in a similar accident.

Most accidents are caused by the carelessness of a pedestrian who unconsciously walks in front of an automobile. A sober man can rest assured that he is within his rights but if the condition is reversed and the person happens to walk in front of a machine operated by a man who has had a few drinks then the blame is heaped upon the unfortunate drinking motorist, whether he is right or wrong. Ten years without an operator's license is a long time when one stops to think about it.

MARGHERITE DONLAN, 125 Salem
—I think that the law of license for one year is enough for a drunken driver whether he kills someone while in that condition or not. Just because a man takes a drink is no sign that he is a deliberate killer. A drunken man, however, is just as sorry for his act as if he kills a person as many sober ones who go along the road cursing at people because they do not get out of the way of his automobile fast enough. There are a lot of persons driving automobiles who are just as dangerous to the community as drunken drivers.

MRS. IRENE ALEXANDER, 131
Mountain ave.—"In my opinion the bill as signed by Governor Allen is the best that could be held over the person who has been drinking and operates a car after he has been drinking. There are too many persons who are willing to take such a chance and it is not unusual for much intoxicated operators to cause grief in the homes of citizens who are making every effort to conform with the laws.

The mother of a three-year-old baby girl, I am heartily in favor of this law. As a matter of fact, I don't think they should be given a second opportunity to kill a person.

HIDES OUT AS GIRL'S AUTO CRASHES SHOP

Robert Yee, Chinese laundryman, slept peacefully in the rear of his shirt and collar establishment in Union at 1, Lynn.

What? Bang! The front of the shop crashed in. Yee went out the back door, a yellow blur. Just one thought occurred to the Oriental. The Tong was at it again!

He traveled far and he traveled lone. And he traveled mighty fast if the Tong was on an agency, and catch him! The Lynn police did try but it was several hours before they succeeded in finding him.

A sergeant dragged him from his hiding place.

"Bad news, Yee," he began. "Girl named Helen McGee of Swampscott drove her automobile through your front window and runed your shop."

"No Tong?" inquired Yee. "Tong?" No," exclaimed the sergeant. The Oriental grinned.

"Allissuma washum up, iron out trouble. No needum check."

One week ago, going into the third match, Brae Burn appeared to be firmly established in last place of the championship division of the Women's Golf Association of Boston team matches.

But the West Newton team has been on the winning end of three matches since then and is now tied for first place with Midland and Southern.

The Brae Burn team has been one of the most remarkable in the history of the association. It was formed by a W. G. A. team, composed of the best players, Brae Burn, a first two starts but was on the winning end of but three out of 10 individual matches. Brae Burn opened its defense in stroke half free of the field.

Bill Grimes, a hitherto undefeated team, coming through with a 6-0 victory. Then the Brae Burnites put the aside under General, the defending champion and on Wednesday won over The Country Club.

Brae Burn and Southern will meet today over the former's course. Regardless of the outcome of the Midland-Country Club match at Charles River, the loser of the Brae Burn-Southern battle will at least for the time being, drop out of first place.

Both teams will be at strength, for this match may be considerable bearing on the outcome of the race for the championship.

In all probability, Mrs. Edward H. Baker, Jr., the district champion, who is the only undefeated first team player, will play Mrs. J. D. Woodfin. In the opening match of the season, these players met and Mrs. Baker was returned a one up winner, after the match she has been forced to play this season.

This is the only defeat Mrs. Woodfin has suffered this year and as she is one of the most improved golfers in the association, she is expected to give the district title holder a stiff battle.

Although Mrs. G. A. Lyon, who has been playing on the first team at The Country Club, will be out of the lineup against Midland for play at the Charles River Country Club, Mrs. Helen Stone and Mrs. Bartlett Harwood who did not play against Brae Burn, will start.

The Country Club is only one match away from the leaders and can stay in the race by turning back Midland.

Walker-Hudkins Bout Slated For Coast

Sacramento, Cal., May 2 (AP)—The proposed midweek match between Mickey Walker and Art Hudkins again held head for California today, according to William Hanlon, chairman of the state boxing commission.

Slated by Jack Kearns for either Illinois or California before September 30, Hanlon will inform the Illinois commission that he would accept the $10,000 put up by Walker's manager, Hanlon stated, however, that he would protect the Illinois commission in its agreement with Kearns.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

According to the British bookmaker's sheet, Archie Campbell is the favorite to win the open next week at Murfield.

Leighton is quoted at 20 to 1, while the odds against George Duhan and Henry Cotton are 30 to 1, and English bookie will pay $43 for every $1 placed on Walter Hagen and George von Elm, to win the British open.

For those who care to put a bet on WM Bill Melhorn, Gene Sarazen, Mac Smith, Jim Barnes, Charlie Whitcomb, Ted Ray, Abe Mitchell, and Harry Vardon, the price is 40 to 1, while Johnny Farrell, Horton Smith, Bobby Cruikshank and Aubrey Boomer are 50 to 1 shots.

Carrying a 66 to 1 price, Leo Diegel, the P. G. A. and Massachusetts open champion, is a real bet. Evidently, this book was compiled before the Ryder Cup matches were played or Diegel would never have been such a long shot. They rated P. Phillips Perkins, the British champion; Joe Turnesa, and Eddie Whitehouse as the equals of Diegel.

For those players who are planning to play in the state open at the Vesper Country Club now is the time to send in entries. All seven and under amateurs are eligible for the open, but they will be acting wisely to send their entries immediately to the M. G. A.

Speaking of entries, the bars will be lowered on players who are eligible to compete in the state championships on May 17. The school authorities should mail all entries to the office of the Massachusetts Golf Association, 50 State st.

On May 22 there will be an elimination round for the Bay State entries to the New England intercollegiate on May 17. The school authorities should mail all entries to the office of the Massachusetts Golf Association, 50 State st.

Although the W. G. A. team matches have reached the halfway mark, every team in the league still has a chance of winning. It is the closest race in the annals of W. G. A. team matches, for only one match separates the first from the last team.

Regardless of the fact that many of the best four ball combinations in Greater Boston will play in the annual Woodland Golf Club tournament which opened today, will continue through tomorrow, fully Donnelly and Gerald M. Woodland kid team, will be

Boston Latin Plays Harvard Seconds

By DICK McSWEENEY

Schoolboy baseball games today and tomorrow are few in number, but Saturday will see the majority of the Boston and suburban nines in action.

There are only three games billed today, with seven to be played tomorrow.

Boston Latin is entertained by Harvard seconds and Haverhill journeys to Nashua, while Kings Tech goes to River. Tomorrow's struggles find Lynn G. E. at Huntington, English vs. Charlestown at Roslindale, Belmont at Reading, Milton at Abington, Belmont Hill at Brown and Nichols and Rivers school at Country day.

Latin school will give the Crimson scrubs a battle, for the Purple outfit seems to have the necessary auging and its pitching is fair. Bucky Warren is having a fine season at third and George Weddleton is handling the catching capably. Stewart, Gordon, Higgins, and Litchfield have shown good heaving form. The latter is especially effective, having already been credited with a two-hit win over Milton Academy.

Haverhill nine showed plenty of punch in last Saturday's game with Lynn Classical and figures using the same punch in its war at Nashua.

Labrette who was credited with the win over Lynn Classical, may not see the Haverhill mound today. Rivers' weak ball team plays host to Rindge Tech. Welby's Tech team a formidable opponent for any school nine.

Tomorrow's skirmishes bring together Boston English and Charlestown at Roslindale. The Blue and Blue is after its sixth straight win and with Fulton, McLean or Vito Tamulis hurrying it would seem that its victory hopes are assured.

Shannon, centerfielder and O'Neill, shortstop, are hitting well for Charlestown.

Roslindale's free hitting outfit gets an opportunity to boost individual batting averages in its tussle at Roslindale. Lynn G. E. tests Huntington. Milton collides with Abington. Belmont Hill visits Brown and Nichols, and Rivers school engages in conflict with Country Day in other boroughs at Charlestown.

Brookline and Quincy oppose each other on the honey Buse course tomorrow in the only scholastic golf match of the day.

Too bad Newton's track team isn't entered in the B. C. interscholastic meet on Saturday. Bob Ewing in the dash, Francisco and Hamm in the shotput, would make things interesting for the field in these events.

Schoolboy tennis matches for tomorrow: Newton at Everett, New Hampton at Huntington, Waterbury at Winthrop and Lexington at Winchester.

GREEN TEAM IN GYM MATCHES SATURDAY

Dartmouth College has forwarded the entries of six men for its senior New England gymnastic championships to be held at the Walker Memorial Gymnasium, Institute of Technology on Saturday evening.

To date many entries have been received, and with several days before closing time the committee is looking forward to a record number of entries.

The five championship events to be contested are horizontal bar parallel bars, flying rings, tumbling, and side horse.

In addition to these events Albert Jochim and Herman Witzke, members of the 1928 Olympic team and national champions, will give demonstrations on all pieces of apparatus.

Entries for the title events closed Wednesday, May 1, with the chairman of New England gymnastics Herbert G. Forsell 1928 Columbia.

Dartmouth entries are as follows: J. R. Ewing, tumbling; G. A. Hearn, tumbling; W. M. Owen side horse; Elmer Fricke, horizontal bar and tumbling; P. H. Ewing, horizontal bar; G. E. Zey, flying rings and parallel bars.

Country Day Downed
Middlesex school tennis team scored its second victory of the season, posing out a win over Country Day school, 3 to 2, on the former's courts in Concord.

Harvard Nine Wars With New Hampshire

By TED LYNCH

Harvard ends its four-day layoff this afternoon when the Crimson ball nine faces the New Hampshire Wildcats at Bol-ders Field.

The pressure of divisional examinations has forced the Harvard management to limit the number of ball games the next two weeks, with Harvard only playing one game next week.

Coach Fred Mitchell is starting Red MacCallie against the upstarts from this afternoon. MacCallie has been knocked out of the box in his two previous starts.

MacCallie's battery mate is still undecided. Jim Dudley may be behind the platter.

DUDLEY MAY CATCH
Dudley has been confined to his home through illness and unless he makes his first appearance in over two weeks this afternoon, Sam Batchelder will catch.

Coch Mitchell is making one other shift in his lineup. Benny Bassett will return to the centerfield post and also will lead off at bat.

Some wild hurler almost took Bassett's ankle off last week in batting practice and forced him out of the Springfield game. Ben now has lost his limp and will be trotted in the middle.

The strength of the visitors tomorrow is a matter of doubt. The Wildcats opened their season on Wednesday, playing Providence, and the game with Harvard today will mark their second encounter.

Coach Sweeney is bringing down team from Durham that should give Harvard a real battle.

Stasiak and DeVito in Mat Bout at Arena Tonight

McCoy and Brown are Also Listed to Clash in Tussle at Arena

THE roughest battle of the mat season is scheduled to be held in the Arena tonight when Stanley Stasiak, king of rough and tumble wrestling, meets Joe DeVito of Providence in the two out of three falls finish match which will feature a card of five bouts.

Stasiak, one of the roughest and most of all the wrestlers in a slight favorite to win, although DeVito has gained an edge in popularity by virtue of his string of victories scored in local rings in the past six weeks.

There will probably be very little action on display. Stasiak will be wrestling the first Italian of his career tonight. George Calais and Antonio Gardini have always refused to meet the man-mountain, and the giant Polish star will attempt to wreak vengeance on DeVito for all the wrongs he has done in the past six weeks.

DeVito, when he wants, can be cold and clever, but he seems to prefer the rough-and-tumble business. The best Stan Zyzanski won by moral doses of rough stuff, and he will seek to batter down the more clever George McLeod by a series of rabbit punches.

How will he fare in this battle with Stasiak remains to be seen. He is younger than Stasiak, but is not necessarily an advantage in the wrestling game.

Stasiak's physical advantages belong to Stasiak, and that includes strength, weight and reach.

The bout will mark the close of a near capacity crowd is expected to turn out. It is possible that Brown will arrange one of two post-season matches, but if they can not be clinched, the curtain will fall on the season tonight.

In the semifinal match, Farmer George McLeod will meet the popular Pat McGill of Somerville. Their bout should be a sensational affair, for McLeod and McGill are built along the same line.

For real wrestling, their meeting is liable to overshadow the main bout between Stasiak and DeVito, where roughness is expected to play the leading part.

McCoy and Brown of Cambridge, former college football stars and now a rising young wrestling star, will make his first local appearance in many weeks when he faces the capable Andy Brown of New York in the featured preliminary match. McCoy has improved 100 per cent, and is looking upon as the best young prospect in the country. Brown will battle him right down to the finish line, and may even hand the popular Cambridge athlete his first defeat.

In the opening bouts, Stanley Jinto, Bohemian champion, will meet Charlie Metro of Salem, and Jose Dominguez, the combination boxer-wrestler, will wrestle Arthur Davis, former Tulsa College instructor.

Reservations may be obtained at the Arena, at Paul Browne's office, 115 Chauncy st.

Lott Out of First Davis Cup Matches

New York, May 2 (INS)—George M. Lott, Jr. of Chicago, third ranked American tennis player, will not be a member of the Davis Cup team which will play Canada, Japan and the winner of the Mexico-Cuba match, according to an announcement made public today by Joseph D. Wear and Miss Eustice Elton, who will select the American team.

Although Wear and Elton plan to ask Lott to play abroad in the match with Italy, reports are spreading that he will demand to be allowed to play against France if he is to be used in the preliminary European rounds. The Chicago star was left on the sidelines in the challenge round with France last year.

43 Drivers Qualify for 500-Mile Race
Indianapolis, Ind., May 2 (INS)—With entries closed, 43 cars were listed for qualification for the International 500-mile race here May 30. It is the greatest number nominated for the event in a 10-year history.

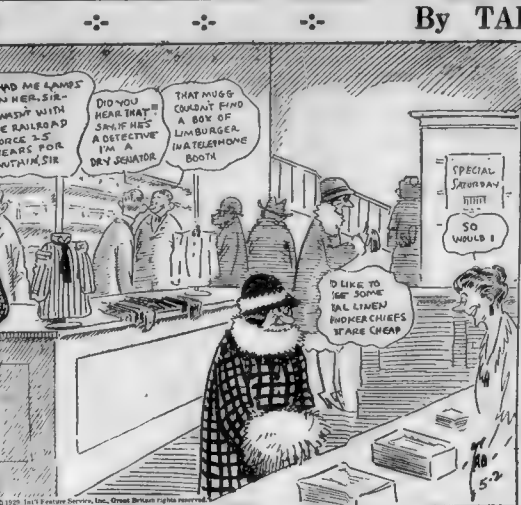

One of the last-minute entries was an engine speedster, a Thompson special, which will be piloted by Jules Moriceau, a Frenchman.

There will be five Duesenbergs, including one driven by Tommy Milton, only two-time winner of the Indianapolis race. Milton is completing a Detroit special, which will drive a French Delage, and will drive a French Delage, and will drive a French Delage, and will drive a French Delage.

Gardner Enters 22 Horses at Arlington
Chicago, May 2 (INS)—A request for quarters for 22 horses of the stable of H. P. Gardner of Arlington, N. Y., was among applications pouring into the American Jockey Club office for the racing season at Arlington Park here which opens July 1.

Gardner's stable will include the son of Man O'War, who will serve for top honors in the American classic, the $50,000 million event that features the 11 stakes to be run during the meeting.

Arlington reservations include practically all the leading stables in Kentucky and the East.

Horsemen Are Still on Strike

Aurora, Ill., May 2 (INS)—The second day of Aurora's horsemens and raceless horse racing season, the turf rules forbade the standing part in the face of the ultimatum of General Manager Clifford Trimble of the track to trace or get out and take your horse with you.

"If the entries don't fill today all stables that have refused to enter horses will be shown the gate," declared Trimble.

He reiterated it was impossible to raise the purse minimum to $1000, as the horsemen demand, and that turf rules forbade the donation of one per cent of purse fees to the Thoroughbred Horsemen's Association.

Lawrence R. Jones, business agent of the Horsemen's Association, said the meeting was so far as his organization was concerned.

"If the race track officials can remain adamant, we will show them what real concrete is like," he said.

"Where we have won this fight we will carry the issue to other tracks in Illinois. We have not carried the matter into Kentucky for legal reasons. At present Illinois is the weakest link in the racing system and we are striking here first."

Holy Cross Defeats Yale in Close Clash
New Haven, Ct., May 3—Holy Cross defeated Yale, and the Purple won 1 to 0 here.

Only one hit was made off Nikola, while Loud was touched up for four times, yet the Holy Cross victory came in a hitting inning, a passed ball paving the way for the score.

An error put a Purple runner on base, then a batsman moved the runner up, and he batted home on a passed ball to seal the fate of the Yale round arm in the fifth frame.

Nikola was the better of the two fingers, for he shifted 12 Yale batsmen with his scorching fast ball and variety of hooks and curves.

SHARKEY IS TO BOX MONTE IN WORKOUTS

Jack Sharkey, the world's leading heavyweight, will assist Joe Monte of Brockton in preparing for his 10-round battle with Big Boy Hanson of Dorchester at the Arena next Tuesday night.

Sharkey, who is keeping in condition for his September fight with the winner of the Schmeling-Paulino shindy, will box with Monte today, tomorrow and Saturday at two o'clock at Toland's Gymnasium.

In the early speculation on the fight, Monte is favored to defeat Hanson. He has had far more experience than Hanson, having defeated Joe Woods of Los Angeles, George LaRocca twice, James J. Braddock once after having been held to a draw by the famous Braddock, and addition he knocked out Humphreys Kelly.

John Eackley, who manages both Monte and Sharkey, is confident that his young heavyweight will win.

"Any time Al Lacey is handling a fighter, you bet I can beat him," said Eackley. "He handled Fidel LaBarra and Jimmy Vaca here when I managed Vaca, and little Vaca whipped him nearly twice. Monte will win."

Rawson continued his steady training at Toland's gymnasium. The young man is improving at a steady pace.

Lacey and Mike Carr, his manager, and if he survives the Monte fight, will be in line for some big outdoor shows during the summer months.

Col. Bob McKelvey signed his training, brilliant West End fighter, to meet Charlie Parker of the South End in one of a pair of eight rounds.

Stribling to Rest Till Fall
Young Stribling, once the busiest of heavyweights, has joined the army, and will be in the line for some big outdoor shows during the summer months.

The layoff is the longest of Young Stribling's nine career. In 1917 the Southern staged 150 matches in a single year, which is considered a record.

MR. BOSTON

JACK CONWAY

MR. BOSTON stepped into Jim Toland's Gym just as Al Mello completed his training for his 10-round bout with Gorilla Jones at the New York Garden tomorrow night. A few minutes later the twice-conqueror of Joe Dundee was being rubbed down in his dressing room by Bobby Goldman who has directed his affairs since he is the amateur.

"How are you, Al?" queried Mr. Boston.

"I feel fine," answered the Lowell youth in that quiet, unassuming way of his. "I weighed 149 1/2 pounds when I finished my workout."

Bobby Goldman handled Mello as gently as one would a new born baby.

"He's the next heavyweight champion of the world," declared Bobby with much enthusiasm. "When in New York, I expect to close a title bout with Joe Dundee. It will be staged by Eddie Mack of the Boston Garden at Braves Field on June 24."

Do you think Mello can lick Dundee at 147 pounds?" pressed Mr. Boston.

"The weight won't bother Mello," replied Goldman. "It is true Al scaled 151 pounds for his last meeting with the champion, but he will be every bit as strong at 147."

"How about this fellow Gorilla Jones?"

"They tell me he's a tough hombre," answered Goldman, "but no body has ever handed Al anything else. He has taken them on at 245 and has usually won."

HENRY LAMAR stepped down under the shower.

"Where have you been lately?" asked Mr. Boston.

"Just back from the mountains," asserted Lamar. "I went to the country following an injury. One day while boxing in the gym I put the thumb on my left hand out of commission. It took some time for the injured member to mend."

"The layoff did Henry a lot of good," interrupted Frank Shannon.

"Notice how he has developed around the shoulders. He now scales 147 pounds and is ready for any of the heavyweights."

"How old are you, Henry?" queried Mr. Boston.

"Just 22," he answered. "I realize it will be three or four more years before I reach my full development. Heavyweights are usually their best when 28."

"FEW people know that Lamar entered his Braves Field bout with Maloney a few hours after having his left hand operated on."

Mr. Boston told the boys in the locker room. "There was an infected condition between the two of them. He couldn't close his hand, and he had the injured duke opened a few hours before he stepped into the ring."

"Few fighters would have faced an opponent of Maloney's ability under such conditions. Lamar took his licking like a man and didn't offer an alibi. If proper living and a good physique mean anything, Lamar should eventually click in the boxing ring."

KE DORRAN, Tex. Rickard's former boxing king, writes Mr. Boston as follows:

"Teddy Sandwina, Jewish-German-American heavyweight, arrived on the Mauretania from London. Sandwina is convinced that he is ready for the first-line heavies after another year's schooling on the other side, where he scored 35 knockouts in 37 fights since he left here last May, making in all 51 knockouts in 43 battles."

"Henry Van Dover, Jack Simpson, Poland Todd and Carl Carter were a few of his latest victims. Sandwina is a notable expert as G. R. Cochrane, Harry Preston, Jeff Dickson and Jimmy Wells were quoted as saying that Sandwina hit Phil Scott a fair punch in their London fight last January when Teddy was injured in the fifth round."

CLAYDWINA stands six feet three inches and weighs 196 pounds. He was born in Russia City of Jewish-German parents, his grandfather being the late Theodore Roosevelt.

Absorption Of John-Manville Corp., by the American Radiator & Standard Sanitary Corp., would seem to be considerably closer as a result of election of directors last week.
Woolley, chairman of American Radiator, told the John-Manville board:

This election is significant, following election April 6 of Francis D. Darton, of J. P. Morgan & Co., and Jackson B. Feltz, president of First National Bank, to the board of American Radiator.

Merzele, who had been general manager since Wallace W. Corcoran left the company and Waco, it seems likely that American Radiator has been working on a combination plan to overtake or absorb well established organization in the building industry by acquiring assets which might include some of the personal character of his original owner.

Their plans for acquisition of Standard Manufacturing Co.'s plants and products have been investigated, and it is understood the possibilities are being explored along linked lines.

MONTH

During the month of April there were published 150 corporation earnings statements for the first quarter which showed aggregate net profits of $10,240,000 as compared with $22,234,000 for the first quarter of 1924, representing an increase of 25 per cent. Bearing in mind the fact that the more favourable statements are being published most promptly, this showing is nevertheless very satisfactory and reflects the high rate of industrial activity manifest above.

Earnings of the steel, automobile accessory and petroleum companies made a particularly large gain. A tabulation includes the American Petroleum Corporation whose first quarter's profits, 21 1/2% increase over the same period of 40 cents, payable June 15, 1924, set a record for dividends for the same amount over 1923, 5 1/2% this year, and December, 1923.

Baldwin gained 2%. Railroad locomotive completions this year to May 1, 1924, with unfilled locomotive orders, 1,100, as compared with 1,075 for the same period of the year Sept. 1, 1923, a 20 per cent advance over the same period of the year Sept. 1, 1922. It is estimated volume of business and net profits will even exceed the year at least 30 per cent.

General Motors, 1924, 100% subsidiary of Baldwin, has shown almost no improvement this year, and is operating at 75 per cent greater capacity than in early 1923 and 1924. The earnings are expected to add materially to Baldwin's 1924 showing.

May Marketing

THESE are the days when the vocal advertising of strawberries and pineapples is often in our ears, and I am wondering if there is anything I can tell you that will save you being (pardon the expression) "property stung" as I have been so many times by clever hucksters.

Martha Lee

Of course, even our bride knows that you always find the largest and best strawberries on top of the box, while the green, small, overripe and decayed berries nestle carefully near the bottom although the very bottom layer may be large, fat and juicy. Try to select berries of medium to large size of bright red color, free from dirt and pale green unpinkness. A full quart, including the box, should weigh 30 ounces. If it is under 27, you are getting short weight.

There is not so much to be learned in buying pineapples, nor does the quality vary with the different sizes. If you are going to use the fruit immediately, it should be of a uniform golden orange color. Pull a leaf out of the head and if the leaf is white for some distance up from the base, the pine is unripe. If over-ripe, the bottom of the pineapple will be noticeably soft.

Remember, that beans and peas will deteriorate just as quickly in a warm kitchen as in the market. Beans should be kept in a cool place, and peas should be kept in a cool place. There is a new and delicious pineapple recipe.

PINEAPPLE AND CHEESE SALAD

Add 1 c. cold water in 1 shape, 1/2 pint. When set, add 1 c. boiling water and stir until gelatin dissolves. Add 2 shape, sugar and 1/2 c. crushed or grated pineapple. Four half of the mixture into a mold and set in cracked ice to become firm. Season cream cheese with paprika and form into balls. When the mixture in the mold has begun to thicken arrange cheese balls in the mold. Add the remainder of the mixture and set in a cold place until firm. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

And another lovely pineapple recipe is

PINEAPPLE SANDWICHES

Cut oblong slices of sponge cake about 1/2 inch thick. Put together in pairs with a layer of crushed or grated pineapple between. Place on individual serving dishes, sprinkle with powdered sugar and slices of halves of nuts into the top layer of cake. Pour cold hard sauce over just before serving.

Also a delicious pie

LEMON PINEAPPLE PIE

Mix 1/2 c. each hot water and syrup drained from crushed or grated pineapple and bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly, and remove from the fire. Add 1/2 c. butter, 3 eggs, lemon juice, 1/2 c. sugar, 1/2 c. crushed or grated pineapple and 2 beaten egg yolks. Pour into a pastry lined pie pan and bake until lightly browned. Remove from the oven, cool slightly and cover with a meringue. Bake 10 minutes. Return to oven and brown the meringue.

Here is a simple strawberry dessert, easy to prepare and delicious served with lady fingers.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT

Crush a quart of washed and hulled berries, selecting those of a dark red color. Leave in a sieve to drip for an hour. To the pulp remaining, if there is less than 1/2 c. of juice, add 1/2 c. of new sugar, drain again and add 1/2 c. of heavy cream which has been beaten stiff.

Faithfully yours, MARTHA LEE.

Nothing to Wear

DRAWN BY Dorothy Flack

HOW many times have you heard a girl say, "Oh, I couldn't get a thing to wear"? And you know full well that they have a closet just packed with lovely things and you ponder on woman's vanity.

An I have seen you heard a little girl sadly declare the fact that she can't get an invitation because she has nothing to wear and you know that she speaks the truth. One poor little gown that has been made and remade, furnished and refurnished, dyed and turned and twisted until there's hardly anything at all left of the original. And that is tragedy! And your heart aches for her and you wish you could dash out and buy everything in sight for her, only you know her pride would never let her accept.

And so it goes! But I'm wondering if the girl whose sole thought is clothes and more clothes is ever half as happy as the girl who wears dress. She can go out and get every bit of enjoyment out of the evening, for she knows she isn't invited for her gorgeous gowns, but for her own sweet self.

AUCTION BIRLIDGE

by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

Stick in dummy for a possibly used discarded. Declarer trumps with the heart 5 and leads the heart king, which wins North showing on hearts. A second lead of hearts is taken by South with his ace, North declaring the spade 8. South is given a heart to throw declarer in and this escape a damaging lead. Declarer winning, draws North to trump. Declarer then leads a small spade and wins with dummy's ace. Dummy returns the spade 8 North covering with the jack and East covering with the king. A third lead of spades is won by North with the queen and the spade 10 is established as a trick in it. Declarer's contract is set at trick 13, which declarer trumps. Declarer then makes his spade 10 and diamond ace, losing the 13th trick in North's diamond king. This the declarer's contract is set at trick 13.

Tomorrow's article will show the bidding and play of another hand.

MR. WHITEHEAD will appear next Wednesday at 8 o'clock at the auction of the Boston Public Library. He will be auctioneering the property of the late Mrs. J. B. Whitehead, which includes a large collection of books, paintings, and other valuable articles.

SMART SAYINGS OF CLEVER CHILDREN

Teacher—"What is a phenomenon?"

Student—"I can't describe one; but if you see a cow or hear a bird sing, those are phenomena; but if you see a cow sitting on a throne, singing like a bird, that's a phenomenon!"

WOMEN often believe that soap and water are bad for the skin. There are those who boast that they use neither on their face. The notion, however, is fallacious. Nothing is better for the complexion than the use of a good soap and soft water.

Advice to Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am fifteen years old and am in the second year at a well-known high school. I travel on the train every day. There are many other girls and boys who travel on the train. For the past three months, I have been sitting with boys as well as girls.

My mother objects to this. She says it doesn't look nice and she will not have it.

BROWN EYES.

I THINK, Brown Eyes that your mother understands the situation better than I do because she knows you so well personally, and her judgment is better than yours because she has had more experience. No my suggestion, follow her advice—you will never regret doing so.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I met a young man while on my vacation this summer. He paid me a little attention to me, but not too much. He did not appeal to me, but I used the way he danced. He came over to get me several times and I treated him just terribly. I have not seen him for a long time. Recently I met him at a dance. He smiled and said, "Hello." But he was very cold.

I would like him to ask me for a dance. How could I go about that? Remember, we don't speak to each other any more.

UNCERTAIN.

I HATE it is a little late in the day, my dear, for you to decide to win the attention of the young man you treated "terribly" last summer! He probably decided that a girl who could not treat him with friendly courtesy was not worth bothering with.

Since he refuses to speak to you, I think you will have to content yourself with other dancing partners. But, after this, think twice, won't you, before being rude to young men who do not appeal to you?

It is not necessary to encourage the friendship of a young man whom you do not like, but it is necessary to be gracious and polite to him, if you wish to keep up the acquaintance.

THE STARS IN TONIGHT'S RADIO

MOVIE and radio stars will greet the radio audience in the Lehn and Fink broadcast through WBZ-WBZ at 7 o'clock tonight. Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Gloria Swanson, D. W. Griffith and Ronald Colman will say "hello" from the stage of the Apollo Theater, New York, on the occasion of the first showing of Colman's new sound picture, "Bull Dog Drummond." Later in the evening William Fox will be heard in the Haley Stuart hour on WEEL etc.

BETTER REPRODUCTION
RADIO, the silent drama and talkies are fast by day discovering closer affinities, and the three elements of mechanized public entertainment are gradually finding a common working ground. With the rise of the various systems of sound-movies, a wall went up from critics united in the opinion that the newly perfected technique of the silent film was to be discarded in favor of inane experimentation in a strange medium. These same critics had scored a good word to say for the silent film up to the time of the coming of the first sound pictures. Better and better sound pictures are being produced. Better reproduction is being accomplished in the theaters. A sound-picture technique is rapidly developing.

EARLY MISTAKES
A LION'S SHARE of the credit for the increasing success of the talkies should go to radio and its workers. Almost from the beginning of wireless telephony, radio engineers have made a scientific study of sound frequencies and methods of reproducing them faithfully. The idea of faithful reproduction has come home to the workers. Incredibly, in the beginning, the public was listening to fairly good talking reproductions of all too inadequately. Just as in the early days of radio, the quality of sound transmitted by radio stations was almost perfect, whereas today our quality in the home was due to poor receiving apparatus. The early criticism was unfair to the producer. His production was often marred by the limitations of early radio equipment. The sound-picture studio is now full of former radio men who know tone-quality and the limitations and possibilities of the speech amplifier and the microphone.

Freedom of Press Should Be Guarded by the Government

The highest duty of an independent press is to protect the public from exploitation.

It must be free to speak out against exploitation by corrupt and grafting public officials.

It must be free to speak out against exploitation by selfish and greedy corporate interests, especially corporations which have been given a monopoly in providing the public with indispensable services like electricity.

Such a corporation, a community's sole provider of a prime necessity of life, has the equivalent of the taxing power. The business of a free press is to see to it that this power is not abused.

A blow is struck not only against the freedom of the press but against the freedom of the people, when public officials or public service corporations are allowed to muzzle the press.

In the State of Minnesota an intolerable power to muzzle the press by public officials has been given to Minnesota judges.

Without jury trial a judge there can suppress a newspaper by declaring it a nuisance. The American Newspaper Publishers' Association, following the recommendation of its committee on freedom of the press, is properly proceeding to fight the Minnesota law.

But last week, for some reason, the American Newspaper Publishers' Association declined to declare itself against a more dangerous and insidious attack on the freedom of the press, namely, the purchase of newspapers by electric power corporations.

In our opinion, the American Newspaper Publishers' Association must have an opportunity to do something important for the protection of the people and the honor of the newspaper profession.

THE INTEREST OF THE PEOPLE IN THIS DISSECTION WILL HAVE TO BE GUARDED BY SOME OTHER BODY—BY THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT. WE HOPE.

The Federal Trade Commission has uncovered the Power Trust's nation-wide practices of buying reporters, editors and news agencies.

A new and startling chapter to the story was recently written when the secret purchase was disclosed of the Boston Herald and the Boston Traveler by the International Paper & Power Company, controlling most of New England's electric power supply.

Since the disclosure of the purchase of the two Boston papers, the publisher of the Chicago Journal has admitted that the International Paper & Power Company has acquired $7,000,000 of that newspaper's bonds, $500,000 of its preferred stock, and one-third (generally regarded as a controlling amount) of its common stock.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer reports that bankers allied with the International Paper & Power Company made an unsuccessful attempt to buy into the Plain Dealer. Before the Federal Trade Commission in Washington. It was revealed that the Power Trust had made investments totaling $1,789,700 in eleven newspapers in the East, Middle West and South, in addition to the Boston Herald and Boston Traveler.

These newspapers are:
Brooklyn, N. Y., Daily Eagle; Albany, N. Y., Knickerbocker Press and Evening News; Ithaca, N. Y., Journal-News; Chicago, Ill., Journal, Chicago, Ill., Daily News; Augusta, Ga., Chronicle; Columbia, S. C., Record, and Spartanburg, S. C., Herald-Journal.

It was testified that through stock purchases in the Chicago Journal, the Power Trust indirectly had aided in the financing of two other newspapers, the Tampa, Fla., Tribune and the Greensboro, N. C., Record.

Freedom of the press is a fundamental principle of our form of government. It is embedded in the Constitution. We believe that Congress, if it will, can find a way to stop these great interstate monopolies from using their huge financial resources, contributed by the people, to destroy the free press by means that range from secret bribery of newspaper employes to outright purchase of newspapers themselves.

It looks as if Congress would not be able to prevent the purchase of newspapers by the Power Trust. But Congress can prevent the Power Trust, and this monopoly should be dissolved under the laws that exist.

And if Congress does its duty under the Sherman Act and the Clayton Act the Power Trust will have to stop robbing the public; and if it stops robbing the public it will not have so much plunder to invest in the purchase of newspapers, the hiring of college professors, the snubbing of teachers, the demoralization of instruction in public schools through text books containing Power Trust propaganda.

How much more evidence does Congress need?

Holyoke May Lead State From Trust Clutches

Municipalities—attention!
Power Trust—attention!

Legislation designed to make it easier for municipalities to own their own lighting plants is pending on Beacon Hill. Yesterday's news carried announcement of a one-half cent reduction in the kilowatt hour charge of the Holyoke municipal light plant. The price to consumers is now four cents with a maximum charge of four and one-half cents to small users.

Members of the Lowell City Council, contemplating establishment of a municipal plant of their own, visited Holyoke and were astounded. As well they should have been. The Holyoke charge is one-half that of the Lowell Light & Power Co., privately owned plant.

The Holyoke plant is worth $4,000,000. It pays no fancy sales, makes no wasteful payments to interlocking engineering companies. It has neither installation nor service charges.

Holyoke, with perhaps the lowest lighting rate in the United States, may well lead Massachusetts cities and towns "out of the wilderness" of high priced, smoke-screened, Power Trust control.

It's a Crime

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

HAVE been accused of being "re-actress" because I suggested that women love a masterful man, and sometimes rather enjoy being tossed by one who can do it effectively.

Isn't that AWFUL?

But the funny thing about it is that the article in question was inspired by a bored Young Modern, who confided to me that she was yearning for a Petrarch who could make her "step round."

She wanted to be TAMED, mastered and dominated by a strong right arm. To be made love to lockingly and imperiously. To be rock-awared!

All of which must call forth a hollow moaning laugh from the not-so-young generation of women, who fought and struggled against the "tyrant man," for the right to vote, a cigarette, and a chair in the barber shop.

But, then, it's SO easy to be "re-actress" these days!

You're reactionary if you prefer music to jazz, and if you would rather go to a symphony concert than to a prize fight.

You're reactionary if you wear enough clothes to keep you from shivering. You're the winter and enough bathing suit to keep you from blistering in the summer.

You're reactionary if you address a man by anything except his pet name, half an hour after you met him—and positively prohibitory if you object to being kissed after the second dance.

You're reactionary if you prefer cauliflower to broccoli—and if you have ham and eggs for breakfast instead of caviar and coddle.

You're reactionary if you ever eat that ANYTHING could shock you or impress you. Or excite you. Or worry you.

You're reactionary if you admit that you actually LIKE WORK. And if you confess that you actually care for your own husband, and you're positively fuddled.

You're reactionary if you prefer comfortable stuffed chairs to modernistic stools.

You're reactionary if you believe in romantic love or idealistic love, or anything except an attraction.

And, of course, you're reaction if you believe that God made men stronger than women, and women finer and more delicate than men. And that the two are still running along the same old emotional track.

We have gotten rid of the ton stin, the adenoids and the appendix, but we have not yet gotten rid of the human heart and its usual reactions.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WAS talking with a girl in the Women's Prison the other day.

She is serving a sentence for forgery.

Her sulky, pretty face was stained with tears of self-pity.

"They don't know how a girl is tempted," she sobbed.

She was wrong. I do know how girls are tempted. I've been tempted a lot myself, and I have learned some humiliating facts about those temptations.

Like this young girl, I too, used to blame temptation on society or God. I don't say more.

I KNOW THAT WE MAKE OUR OWN TEMPTATIONS.

Temptations don't just happen. THEY RIPE. THEY RIPE WITHIN US.

THEY RIPE WITHIN US FROM THE SEED OF OUR OWN GREED, VANITY, COWARDICE, MALICE, LAZINESS AND LIES.

They ripen in that girl from the seed of her own vanity.

She loved her pretty face and body. She yearned for fitting clothes to frame that face and body. She coveted every charming thing she saw. She wrapped her imagination about it—made it her own.

IF YOU BEGIN WRAPPING YOUR IMAGINATION AROUND THINGS IT'S USUAL ONLY A LITTLE WHILE BEFORE YOU WRAP YOUR HANDS AROUND THEM.

Soon the girl found a way to wrap her hands around the things she coveted. She forged a small check—she took it.

Now she's in the penitentiary wearing a sentence, being sorry for herself and blaming society for her temptation.

She thinks society placed that temptation in a showcase before her.

She does not realize that the temptation lay within her own heart. She herself wrought it by thousands of little mental sins.

Generally speaking, we are what we want to be. Our desires are the things that go to make our lives.

YOUR SINS WILL FIND YOU OUT," is the trust and most tragic of all sayings.

You may have that so deeply hidden that you yourself can hardly remember it. You may only revert to it in rare moments of self-indulgence when you sneak away into the darkness and play with the thought of it furiously. Then you may face society again, clear-eyed, proud of your probity.

But make no mistake. That sin will not forget you, try as you may to forget it. As long as you keep alive by secret indulgence it will drive and grow until some day it betrays you before the world. It will lay low its terrible monster.

life and you, who were trusted and respected, will be revealed a thief, a murderer, a liar, a coward, a hypocrite.

HOWEVER SMALL THE THING YOU HAVE FONDLED IN THE DARKNESS IT WILL SOME DAY GROW GREAT ENOUGH TO OVERWHELM YOU IN THE LIGHT.

Now is it only our secret sin which betrays us. There is one secret sinfulness or silliness or weakness which we have probably diagnosed with a fine name.

Our unfortunate marriages, our unfortunate business deals, our failures and frustrations are all, if truly traceable to some tendency which we have probably diagnosed with a fine name.

New York Day by Day O. O. M'INTYRE

NEW YORK, May 2.—In the Harlem Black Belt is a large sect claiming to be negro Jews and worshipping in a synagogue. There are about 2000 who believe they are the original Israelites of the tribe of Judah, and that while Jews are descendants of the 10 lost tribes.

The congregation is both orthodox and unorthodox. They keep the Saturday Sabbath, eat only kosher meat, observe the matzos diet on Passover, fast on Yom Kippur, but they do not deny Jesus. There are, however, two other congregations of the colored Jewish faith, who deny Jesus.

The more liberal body claim they are Abyssinians. Their bishop is a dapper saddle-colored man who delivers services in Palestinian Hebrew. His church is the Holy Church of the Living God, an old brownstone house jutting off a pretty corner street.

On the wall is the Hebrew alphabet, and in the rear a stained glass window of the Christian cross and crown. Worshippers upon entering knock at a small brass door at the door—the matzo—and while the church is in session, almost "Peace." Old men wear long black coats and high hats.

The church music consists of a saxophone, guitar and tambourine to correspond with Hebrew psalm and the novel of Hebrew origin. It starts off slowly in a benediction of the tom-tom in the deep African jungle and increases in tempo until it becomes almost modern jazz.

Members of the congregation stand and sway to the rhythm. They frequently praise with "Hallelujahs," but there is no hymn singing hysteria. In the strictly orthodox synagogue, the preachers are known as rabbis and are said to be men of deep learning.

The sermons are really a mixture of Hebrew and English. A passage from the Hebrew will be followed by an explanation in English. In the prayers God's blessing is invoked for the true children of Israel. Harlem says its negro Jews are almost invariably hard working and excellent citizens.

ON a Harlem curb a blind and one-armed war veteran appeared at intervals to sing ballads in a marvelous tenor. His voice—the sweet song of a robin—was pealed on a thorn—as that tender and sympathetic quality that renders a block inert and moistens every eye.

EVERY large hotel has an odd character for a permanent stay. In one on Fifth ave. an arbutic old lady in rustling black silk makes a grand entry into the lobby at 11, dinks at the night porter from her own floor, and a plate of ice cream, and departs. At another, northward, is a gentleman with side-whiskers and hair fluffed up like a frozen sea swavelet, who wears corded dinner clothes save for a flaming red bow tie. He occupies eight rooms and his sole companion is a pet squirrel. Another, easterly, and his wife dine in family in their suite. He is a Park ave. hotel, where orchestra play while the meal progresses. But the prize goes to a bachelor in a Park ave. hotel, who in his negroite remoteness wears every day a full dress as alone in his apartment.

FLORIERS declare a play two years ago whose disgusting theme was symbolized by a bouquet of violets has almost killed the sale of flowers. The play will no longer wear them at luncheon, dinner or to the play.

TALENTED photographers were first to call cheaply a "bottle"—as only a tabloid photographer can burst a bottle of mouth sidewise. Nothing is more gaudy to nations than the tabloid's vividness of tabloid snapshots.

YOUR frequent references to art and architecture," writes Cedric Co. are quite amusing. How long have you been a collector? Such is the glory that comes to an outstanding collector of steamship circulars. Nobody ever hears of him and I'm off to some distant meadow for a quiet sail.

I am conscious of the architectural yv-essence of the city in Rome, but it is a little too bewitching for me. My speed is the St. Louis Union Station.

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

THE fact is off the gaffs, and the rivers and ponds are boiling green with piscatorial life. The trout fishermen have voluntarily his sea-going boots and is again packing his lunch into a bottle.

Spring is here, and those two happiness boys, Ramon Munchausen and Duke Ananias, are telling about the one that got away but forgot to leave its name and address.

Bill Williams of Kentucky breaks the shell on the egg of argument. Bill says he was fishing in the Cumberland river and caught a two-pound carp on a trout line.

If this is true, then the carp got to trout the catalogue.

He strung the fish on the line and tied the line to the bank. Bill went home, hoping the carp would get away so that he could be next morning.

Most morose! Bill discovered that the carp had been swallowed by a 15-pound salmon. He must have been using the wrong bait when one fish "fell" swallow another just to get it.

We will believe Bill, but we can't see him that he will probably be blacklisted by the D. A. R.

The worst part about Bill's scenario is that he has started the annual battle contest among fishermen.

Testy Revell of West Virginia bobs up with the info that he was angling in Lake Erie using a small Democrat as bait. He caught a hanjo-mouthed mookie, which is so rare that it ain't even a fish.

Taffy says he got very good casting results using a scarlet coachman on a six-ounce line but thinks he can do better with one of Roy's ushers and the Atlantic cable.

The Elk City Flash says he was fishing off the Ohio when the levee broke and he knocked a 20-pound catfish off a neighbor's fence.

We do not doubt that Bill Williams caught a 15-pound salmon in the Cumberland river. We do not even doubt that Bill could stuff a bale of hay into his vest pocket.

Clyde Milan, the old Washington outlander, used to tell us about fishing in Kentucky. Clyde had a big dog that flunked a crow on the river edge. There the bird was pointing a 15-pound pickerel, and Clyde was so mad he knocked the dog over with his musket.

But the dog kept pointing the pickerel, and finally Clyde shot the pickerel because its eyes remained him of an umpire.

When Clyde got the pickerel home he discovered the crow was inside and that the bird dog was correct in its hairy diagnosis.

That was Clyde's story, and he stuck to it so long that now he is stuck with it.

If Bill Williams wants to top that he had better tie the salmon to the bank and use three-in-one for his bait.
